Diplomatic Corps.

This musical explosion was launched in Washington, D. C., last August.

As part of Moral Re-Armament's action program in the last nine months "Sing-Out '66" has:

- Been seen by 1.6 million people
- Played on 312 college and high school campuses and 20 military bases
- Traveled 35,000 miles
- Grown from 1 cast of 130 to 42 casts with 5,000 participating in America and at least one cast on every continent.

The original cast with the Colwell Brothers performs at Constitution Hall on Wednesday and Thursday, April 27-28, at 8:30 p.m. Seats as available without charge at the door.

Following these Washington performances, "Sing-Out
'66" flies to Germany on the invitation of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and the German Cabinet for a 30-day tour throughout that country.

The 130-strong company, having sacrificed scholarships and jobs, are singing out about, "Freedom isn't free, you have got to pay a price, you have got to sacrifice for your liberty."

They have decided "to detonate the myth of a soft, indulgent and arrogant America and demonstrate an America enthusiastic in its sacrifice and sweat to help create a better world."
